The Presbyterian Church in Canada believes that having elders is faithful to the way the apostles of the New Testament organized the early churches. The word "Presbyterian" comes from the Greek word presbuteros meaning "elder." We are ruled by elders.

From a scriptural point of view, in the early Christian church, the elders were the church leaders who met, thought and reasoned together with the apostles. Together they led and guided the church. At the Reformation, the office of the elder was given a key role, becoming the basis for the Presbyterian form of government.

The tradition of elder in our church today underlines an important principle: The Presbyterian Church in Canada gives its members significant participation in decision making, recognizing that the entire church is the people of God. The church attempts to seek God's will through the collective decisions made by God's people.

All Christians are called to participate in the ministry of Christ.

As his body on earth we all have gifts to use in the church and in the world to the glory of Christ, our King and Head.
